Acknowledgment of Country

The University of Queensland (UQ) acknowledges the Traditional Owners and their custodianship of the lands on which we meet.

We pay our respects to their Ancestors and their descendants, who continue cultural and spiritual connections to Country.

We recognise their valuable contributions to Australian and global society.

Meet your Program Director!

Dr Caroline Wilson-Barnao, coordinating and teaching Dissertation/ Thesis in Museum Studies in semester 1 and semester 2.

Caroline has a strong interest in exploring the impacts and possibilities of the use of digital and participatory media by the museum and is passionate about its role in to connecting people with cultural institutions.

She has written a range of articles on the use of technology by the museum and her book 'Museums as Platforms' was released with Routledge last year.

Formerly a communications professional with around 20 years of experience in the cultural sector, she has a strong grasp of museum marketing and management.

Caroline is currently working on a book with Routledge on how GLAMS collect social media.

What I do

- Responsible for the overall management of the program.
- Provide support to prospective and current students on academic matters study plans and progression.
- Convene the thesis courses.
- Foster and maintain links for the program.
- Oversee the development of the program.
- Support teaching staff.

UQ staff teaching this semester

Associate Professor Diana Young, coordinating and teaching MUSM7000: Museums Theory and Practice, and co-teaching MUSM7002: Collections in Semester 1, 2024; MUSM7003: Cultural Management in Semester 2.

Diana teaches and convenes several of the core courses within the program. Her research is on the anthropology of art and on visual and material culture and design inside and outside museums.

Diana came to UQ to direct the UQ Anthropology Museum, a role she carried out for 8 years co designing and co creating the museum that you see today.

Diana is a scholar, educator and curator. First trained as an architect in the UK before studying anthropology in London and working with some Indigenous families in the Australian central Desert on colours and design in everyday life.

UQ staff teaching this semester

Lisa Enright, teaching MUSM7014/MUSM7015
Museum Internship, in Semester 1, 2024.

Lisa teaches several courses in communications and museum studies. A graduate of the Masters of Museum Studies program, Lisa has a long history in the GLAM and business sectors. Her current PhD research focuses on the publics that coalesce around small museums and how these publics might operate in the digital world.
