

An employer's guide to Work Integrated Learning projects

What is Work Integrated Learning?

Work Integrated Learning (WIL) is the integration of work experience and student learning.

Your organisation can benefit by engaging highly motivated students from the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences (HASS) in for-credit industry experiences that address your needs.

This project-specific WIL can be done on-site, virtually or a blend of these. Our students can contribute in a wide range of organisational areas.

WIL connects students with broad knowledge and skills to practical organisational projects that provide tangible benefits to your organisation.

Why should my organisation participate?

- Highly motivated students with fresh ideas and new perspectives can help meet identified challenges in your organisation
- The opportunity to increase your organisation's productivity with students contributing to delivering projects
- Foster a mutually meaningful network of relationships and help next generation employees gain practical experience

Why HASS students?

- Bring global perspectives, research and analytical skills in a world where the workforce is ever-changing

What projects would be considered?

- Communication and social media
- Language, translating, interpreting and culture
- Community development
- Policy and international relations
- Social science and research and evaluation
- Music and events
- Archaeology, anthropology, Indigenous

What do I need to do?

Students will be assigned to one or more projects that you propose and that are supported by UQ. You will also be connected to UQ staff as a point of contact for any queries or needed guidance throughout the engagement.
